OLD OFFICERS CHOSEN

Result of Election of Central Labor Union.

Much Business Transacted at Las Night's Meeting-Discussing the Unfair List.

The semi-annual meeting of the Central Labor Union was held last evening at Typographical Temple and was largely attended. all the organizations connected with the body being represented. President Milford Spohn occupied the chair and Mr. Joseph F. Torrens was secretary. The election of officers for the ensuing term resulted in the choice of all the retiring officials, as follows: President, Milford Spohn of the Bricklayers' Union: vice president, William Silver of the granite cutters; secretary, Joseph F. Torrens of the stereotypers; treasurer, J. D. McKay of the Amalgamated Association of Carpenters; sergeant-at-arms, William White of the steam and hot water fitters; auditors, A. L. Dahler of the cigar makers, R. J. Meaher of Painters' Protective Union and Joel D. Cross of Columbia Typographical

After the result of the election was announced by the tellers, President Spohn returned his thanks for the honor conferred upon him by the re-election and promised to exert himself to the utmost to promote the best interests of trade unionism in the District of Columbia, and he was convinced he said, that in a short time the condition of labor here would be better than it has been for a long time. The report of Secretary Torrens for the past quarter was submitted. It showed that the treasury was in a healthy condition and was accepted and approved by an unanimous vote.

The application of the horse shoers to be as a branch of the Central Labor Union, and to be aYllated with the American Federation of Labor, was referred to a committee composed of Delegates John Weber, M. P. Canty and William Weber, the latter the district organizer, who were instructed to call on the Horse Shoers' Union, which is affiliated with the local federation, and inform them that the Center of the state of t tral Labor Union intends to grant the application, and, if agreeable to the members of the Horse Shoers' Union, the delegates to the Central Labor Union would like to be informed what the former are going to do about it.

Other Business.

A communication was receiver from a business house whose attention was called to the alleged fact that it was buying goods from an unfair firm in the north, stating that unless the latter would employ union labor for the future they would not patronize them again.

The delegates from the League of Musicians requested that one of the steambat companies whose boats run from this city be placed on the unfair list, but the matter was laid over for one week.

The delegates from the Granite Cutters reported that the granite curbing that is being used by the District government in paving was cut in Georgia by unfair and underpaid labor, and the legislative com-mittee was directed to inform the District Commissioners of the fact.
A communication was read from a gov ernment employs, who requested that his name be not made known, urging the Cen-tral Labor Union to appeal to the American Federation of Labor to make a move-ment all along the line for the repeal of section 5508 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in regard to "conspiracy," as the writer of the communication and many others thought that under the sec-tion persons were sometimes unjustly pun-ished. The matter was discussed at much length and was finally laid over for future and further consideration. Credentials were received from several organizations and the delegates were admitted and obligated. The Steam and Hot Water Fitters requiet title to lot 13, square 1078. Attorney Henry P. Blair represents the complainant. the rest of the employers who are still

The galvanized iron and cornice workers stated that they had decided to decline to accede to the request of the tinners and stone workers to be admitted to membership with them, but were willing that they should be organized by themselves under charter of the American Federation of Labor, and to be affiliated with the Central Labor Union, with the understanding that neither of the organizations were to be restricted as to the kind of work its members would do.

The delegates from the Painters' Protective Union reported that at the last meeting they had sixteen initiations.

Organizer Weber reported the formation of two new unions since the last meeting of the Central Labor Union; also that the Barbers' Union has received its charter, and the officers will be installed shortly; also that delegates from the Barbers' Union will present themselves for admission to the Central Labor Union at the next meeting of the latter.

Mr. Weber further stated that the Hod Carriers' Association have determined to ally themselves with the Central Labor

Harbor Lines.

The Commissioners have commenced opcrations in the engineer department looking to the establishment of harbor lines along the Water street front of the Potomac river. Some days ago, upon motion of Major Powell, the Commissioners called the attention of the Secretary of War to this matter and asked his co-operation in the mater of fixing the lines. The recommendation was approved and the letter of the Commissioners sent to Major Davis, who prepared a map showing the bulk lines. This map was submitted to the Commissioners with the request that the engineer department look into the matter and formulate a scheme.

The matter is now being considered.

FAMILY TROUBLES.

Husbands and Wives Who Could Not Agree

Two women who are firmly of the opinion that marriage is a failure are now pros pective grass widows for six months. One of them is Annie Kerr, whose husband, William Kerr, is a bricklayer, and the other is Elizabeth Minor, whose husband, William H. Mincr. colored, drives a wagon, The Minor man was first to appear before Judge Miller on a charge of wife beating, and his wife was anxous to get rid of him. They have been married a number of years and live near 2d and G streets southwest. Lizzie complained that William has failed to provide for her for a long time and she has been forced to do laundry work in order to support herself. "On the Fourth of July I went to a garden party," was her statement, "and while there I was introduced to a man and he was going my way and—" "And you went along with him?" interrupted the court. "Yes, sir." Resuming, she said that when she went home her husband knocked her down, beat her and kicked her in the eye.

The husband admitted that he beat her, but did not remember that he used his foot on her. "Why did you beat her?"

"Well, judge, I asked people about giving her an introduction to the man and they denied it. And, of course, when she came home we got on cross questions and I struck her."

"The whipping post would just fit you this morning," the judge told him. "A dose of nine and thirty or several times as much as you gave your wife is just what you ought to get; but as the law provides for no such punishment you will have to lie in jall for six months."

Whisky the Cause. Whisky was given as the cause of the trouble in the Kerr family. William, who is much smaller than Annie, who is his better half in more ways than one, has been drinking for several weeks, according to his wife's statement, and only vesterday he refused to accept a tob at $4.50 a day. "I keep a little store at 937 25th street."

William, whose appearance showed that he had been drinking for a long time, charged that his wife has a bad temper and said she bounced so much that her nose bled. "Did you hit her?"
"No, sir; but I did push her away."

"The whipping post," the judge said to Kerr, "wouldn't hurt you today. Any man who will strike his wife needs several times the punishment he inflicts upon her. may have the same as the colored man, six In imposing this sentence the judge said he felt certain that the wife would be in #### court asking for his release before Saturday right. His Love Doubtful.

Mary Ford, a colored woman, who has been in love with John Temple and with whom she has spent the greater part of the last few months, has about concluded that she will live a life of single-blessedness and will not venture upon the matrimonial sea. Until the two had trouble she was satisfied that her love for him was reciprocated, but when they had a row and he cut her head she changed her mind and now she will not see him for six months, unless she calls upon him at the jail.

SAD DEATH OF WM. KEEFE.

His Widow Also an Inmate of the Home for Incurables.

William Keefe, an inmate of the Home for Incurables, died Friday at that institution of paralysis, in the sixty-eighth year of his age. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Trinity Catholic Church, Rev. Father Zimmerman, the assistant pastor, officiating. The interment was at Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mr. Keefe was a native of the District, and had lived here all his life. In early for the last sixteen or eighteen years of his life had been a messenger for the bank-ing firm of Lewis Johnson & Co., working for them until about two years ago, when he was stricken with creeping paralysis, and was taken in at the Home for Incurables. The deceased had been married for forty-four years, and for forty years had lived on H street between 17th and 18th streets. His wife was admitted to the home a month after the husband, she being crippled with rheumatism. She was unable to attend the funeral. Her husband was a member of the Veteran Volunteer Fire-men's Association, and that organization attended the funeral.

AMUSEMENTS.

National Theater.-The fourth week of comedy opened auspiciously at the National last night, and the temperature was a delightful feature of the performance. The first play of the evening was a new one by Paul Wilstach, a Washington playright, and it was extremely well done by Miss Sanders, Mr. Boag and Mrs. Lockwood. It is called "Bridget," and is a simple little domestic scene of two young housekeepers and a recalcitrant old servant, Bridget, Miss Sanders, as always, was artistic and natural, Mr. Boag was magnetic and easy, and Mrs. Lockwood was a fine old Bridget. Following this was Mark Melford's farce comedy, "Turned Up," which turned down all previous efforts of the company at laugh-making. Mr. Bond as Carraway Bones was an irresistible undertaker; Mrs. Findlay was never a funnier housekeeper; Charles Mackay as George Medway did the best thing he has done in a long while; William Boag had a laugh with him that convulsed the house; Abbie Johnson was a plump and pleasing widow (for ten months); Miss Marti was haughty as a queen; Miss Sandwas a vigorous ship captain, and Miss Edythe Chapman so pleased and surprised the house by her work that in the midst of the act she was recalled. So it went all the way around, and the whole evening was a great success. Indeed, there could scarcely be a word said against anything, except-ing two or three coarse lines in "Turned Up," which should be cut out at once. The Schroder, made an extra effort also, and gave for the first time a new march by Carl Au, "The Christian Endeavorer." It is just a little funny, though, that the companion pieces of this march should have been "A Jolly Night," "The Devil's Deputy" and "The Latch Key."

Kernan's Lyceum Theater.-A highly amusing and entertaining burlesque on "Pinafore," entitled "Her Majesty's Safety Pin," was the chief attraction at Kernan's Lyceum Theater last night, and a large audience was in attendance. Miss Maud Harris as "Josie Fine" and Miss Nettie La Vyne as "Butter Tub" did exceptionally bright work, and contributed largely to the success of the burlesque. Mr. John Grieves, Tommy Harris and the members of the Brilliant Quartet furnished the fun and vocalisms, and were received with great favor. Specialties were introduced during received. In the sammer garden the new-comers were Nettie Le Vyne and Lottie Rogers, and both scored heavily. The re-mainder of the large company was seen to good advantage in a change of program embracing all sorts of pleasing specialties.

POLICE COURT ROUND-UP

Most of the Prisoners Today Were Drunks and Disorderlies.

The Trouble in Cow's Alley Disposed of-Some Cran Shooters in the Toils.

Today's round-up of prisoners in the Police Court showed that the colored population had a very large majority, for of the nineteen prisoners only three were white. One of the whites was a female, while four females in the procession were colored. But there was money in the crowd, so Policeman Flynn said, although the funds of the victims were rather low, for most of them insisted on getting rolls and hot sausage for a nickel. "Many of today's prisoners," said the big policeman, "were full last night, and it was only good luck on their part that they were not in the folls yesterday."

Trouble in Cow's Alley. Addison Tanner, a colored resident of Cow's alley, was in court to enter complaint against Mary Stuart and Jane Snowden, two of the colored females who participated in the procession, and several of Addison's friends were also in court to help him out. "Step up here," the court said to Addison, "and tell me all about the trouble." "I didn't have no trouble," he answered; they got in trouble."

"Well, what did they say to you?" "They called me a dead, motherless —
"They called me a dead, motherless —
"he answered, "and said I was a black nigger. Of course, it's well known that my mother's dead and that my skin is black. They are brown-skin people and have brown skin papas, and that's all there is about it."

"Judge, your honor," said one of the wo men, "I'se been livin' in Cow's alley for a long time, and I ain't never had any trouble before. The day of the trouble I wasn't in the alley." "And the neighbors have all been com plaining of the noise in the alley," said the "We ain't got no neighbors, except the Addisons.

"The noise can be heard at my house out on the street," volunteered Policeman The women were fined $5 or fifteen days each, and they went down.
Robert Burnett and John Pruitt, young men arrested for obstructing the sidewalk with their persons, admitted that their arrests were made for sufficient reason, and the usual fine was imposed. Woman Discharged and Man Fined.

Lizzie Fletcher thought she had been doubly punished when she appeared in the toils on a charge of disorderly. Her friend, Samuel Barry, was arrested with her, and both were arraigned together. "The man struck the woman and knock ed her down," said Policeman Hunt.

"And what did the woman do?" the court

wanted to know. "Nothing." "Nothing."

"The woman is discharged."

Barry's case was heard, and he was fined

5 or fifteen days on the farm.

John Mercer said "Guilty" to a charge of disorderly conduct, and went down because he did not have five dollars.

John Manroe and Issae Woody, young John Monroe and Isaac Woody, young colored men, who live in South Washington, escaped a severe fine for the reason that the court was ignorant of the fact that they had been shooting crap. There is no such offense as crap shooting on the statute. such offense as crap shooting on the statute books, and so the players of the game are charged with disorderly conduct or unlawful assembly.

This fact was known to the defendants, who entered pleas of guilty, and submitted to the imposition of the usual $5 fine. When the fine had been imposed the defendants made a plea for leniency, and then it was that the court learned that they had played crap and congratulated them upon their success in having the small fine imposed.

Went Down for Two Wooks "I don't know what you mean," said Charles Smith, a colored man, when the clerk read to him a charge of vagrancy and suspicion. He was soon made to understand, and then he said he was innocent.

"He's been hanging about alleys, sleeping in wagons," the officer said, "and is drunk most of the time."

"And last week I sent him out with $5 worth of clams and crabs in a wagon, said Frances Day, an elderly colored wo man, "and all I got back was the wagon I have a lame husband and have been doing all I could to support him, and have also tried to help this poor man along. The clothes he has on his back I gave him, but he will drink whisky."
Smith made a denial of the charge, but the proof against him was too plain, and the judge gave him a sentence of two weeks on the farm.

She Had No Friends. "This unfortunate creature was put out of her house a week ago, and she has been living in the open air ever since," said Policeman Pearson, when Sarah Wilson, a respectable looking colored woman, apdeared. "She says the world owes her a living, and she is going to stand persecution as well as did the Lord."
"How does she manage to get food?"

"The neighbors have been very charitable o her, and are caring for her child." "Have you any friends?" the woman wa "No, indeed," she answered. "When a woman's got money she's got friends, and when she ain't got money she's without friends." The court sent for Lawyer Hewlett, and he promised to see that some of the char-itable people cared for her. George Smith and Ellis Holmes, South Washington colored boys, who participated in a game of crap on the 6th street wharf yesterday, were given a trial.

"We were not in the game," was their excuse; "we were sitting on a barrel lookexcuse; we were sitting on a parrel booking at the game."
"They were in the game," Policeman Lewis told the court. "I got the bones and six cents, and would have arrested the others, but I could only take two."

They were fined $10 or thirty days each. Money to lend at 5 and 6 per cent on real estate. Frank T. Rawlings, 1505 Pa. ave.-Advertisement.
